Pike District Attorney To Charge Van Why With First Degree Murder

IN A ROOM in Monroe County Court House yesterday afternoon, 13-year-old James Van Why signed a stenographic statement detailing the way he shot and killed a Dingmans Ferry man and critically injured his wife Monday.

Last night Pike County District Attorney Clifton A. Cloud, Matamoras, said he would seek a first degree murder conviction in the case when it goes to court.

The only reason the trip to Stroudsburg was made, Cloud said last night, was so that a professional stenographer using a stenographic machine could take the statement.

District Attorney Cloud said that the boy repeated what he had told State police previously. Cloud said the boy "readily admits" the fatal shooting of Edward W. Ebele, 49, operator of a tourist cottage colony at Dingmans Ferry shortly after noon on Monday.

Ebele had "reprimanded" the youth for firing a target rifle near his (Ebele's) home. Van Why told police he and Ebele "got a little mad at each other" and that was why he shot them, Cloud said.

The tourist cottage owner was killed "almost immediately." His wife, Margaret, 45, was reported "slightly improved" last night at St. Francis Hospital in Port Jervis, N. Y.

In Milford yesterday, Pike County Coroner J. S. Bullock convened a special six-member coroner's jury. The jury did little more than listen to a group of witnesses who identified the body of the dead man.

The coroner's jury was recessed until 9 a. m. Thursday. Additional information concerning the shooting will be presented at that time.

Cloud, meanwhile, indicated that any action on arraignment of the youth on the murder charge will be postponed until following the Thursday coroner's jury hearing.

The boy will "probably be arraigned" before Justice of the Peace Willard Durr, outside Milford, Cloud said. The district attorney said a general murder charge will be filed before the J. P.

This charge will be made specific when the case goes to trial, Cloud said. He indicated he would definitely seek a conviction for first degree murder. Cloud said he has not yet decided whether to ask for the death penalty in prosecuting the case.

The question of the death penalty would hinge, in large part, officials indicated, on the recovery of Ebele's wife. According to State law any person having reached "the age of reason"—legally seven years—is indictable for "wilful and premeditated murder."

Court records show that defendants in the 13-year-old age bracket have been convicted of murder in the past. But the penalty has always been a life sentence, rather than death.

The Pike County Grand Jury will convene on May 21. The case will be presented to the jury at that time, Cloud indicated last night.

No plans are now being made for a change of venue proceeding which would permit transfer of the boy to a jail in another county and trial in that area instead of the immediate surroundings. State police at Milford said last night that there was little public sentiment against the boy in the area.

For the most part, reaction to the shooting seemed to be a kind of bewilderment and stunned silence. Cloud himself reflected this feeling. In describing the day's events yesterday, he told a reporter:

"He (Van Why) had a good record as a student at East Stroudsburg Area Junior High School. He had no past record of trouble with any authorities in the area."

"Yet he admits these shootings and with no apparent remorse. The whole thing is baffling," Cloud said.

Details of the case remained substantially the same as reported on Monday. Outlined by officials, they are:

Van Why lived on a farm owned by J. Russell Eshback, a Pike County commissioner, near Bushkill, with his grandmother and his sister. Van Why's parents are separated.

Sunday night the boy "ran away from home." He took with him a .22 caliber rifle, a .38 caliber revolver and a truck belonging to Eshback.

Monday Ebele was working on his property. He stopped to upbraid the boy for shooting a gun on a hill near the buildings. The two argued. Van Why allegedly shot Ebele twice in the back of the head with the rifle.

Then he ran, jumped into the truck, started to drive away. But the boy rammed the truck into a tree. Abandoning the truck he ran toward the car belonging to Ebele.

TRAGEDY WEARS A NEW MASK—Hands bound by steel cuffs, 13-year-old James Van Why stands on a Stroudsburg sidewalk after signing stenographic statement relating events leading up to Monday's fatal shooting. State trooper in foreground holds .22 caliber rifle boy allegedly used when he shot Dingmans Ferry resort owner. Troopers who brought the boy here to prepare statement were: John McCarthy, James Colbert, Glen James, all of Milford substation. With them was Pike County D. A. Clifton Cloud. Republicans, Democrats Wage Hot Argument At Convention

WASHINGTON, May 1 (AP)—Republican and Democratic politicians got into a hot tempered argument today in front of 3,000 delegates to the U. S. Chamber of Commerce convention.

Boos and jeers came from the audience for Democratic National Chairman Paul M. Butler when he tore into the Republican party as the beneficiary of "vested wealth."

Picket Placed At Ronson's New Plant

A PICKET was stationed yesterday at the Ronson Company's new million dollar plant now under construction in Delaware Water Gap.

The picket was placed at the plant at 7:15 a. m. yesterday by Local 1174, AFL Laborers Union because its agreement with the Lehigh Valley Contractors Association terminated April 30, it's understood.

Business Agent Robert Hilbert of Allentown, said the local is asking for a 30-cent hourly pay hike from the contractors.

Agent "No agreement," said the business agent, "No work." Hilbert said the local would hold a special meeting in Allentown Friday night to consider the situation further.

Tony Massi of Bangor, labor shop steward, who picketed the Ronson plant yesterday, said other trades did not enter during the day.

Milton Pohl, Ronson plant manager, and other company officials were not immediately available for comment. However, Ronson apparently is not involved in the dispute.

The man's wife came out of the house, tried to stop him. "Your husband's just been shot and I'm the one who did it," the boy allegedly shouted at the woman. One bullet hit Mrs. Ebele near the right eye; the other entered her forehead.

Then the boy raced from the scene in the Ebele's car. He was picked up about three hours later on a dirt road near Childs Park by Stroudsburg State troopers.

Van Why was returned to Pike County Jail yesterday afternoon after his statement had been taken in Stroudsburg.

Primary Voting Features Sharp Contests

By The Associated Press

PRIMARY elections in Alabama and the District of Columbia featured some sharp contests among Democrats Tuesday. Meanwhile the Republicans got word President Eisenhower likely will peg his fall campaign on five or six television speeches.

The Republicans fought out a factional battle in the District of Columbia ballot—the first sanctioned by Congress in more than 80 years. But the big race was between Democratic National Convention states representing Sen. Estes Kefauver and Adlai Stevenson.

In Alabama, the major question was the vote-pulling power of Gov. James E. Folsom in a three-man race for Democratic national committeeman.

Folsom, who said recently he "couldn't be elected dog catcher" in Alabama, was opposed by State Rep. C. W. McKay Jr. and Roy D. McCord. His critics contend Folsom has taken a lukewarm stand on racial segregation. The governor declares he always has favored segregation.

Delegation

Alabama Democrats also voted for a 26-vote delegation to the party convention and nominated 11 presidential electors and candidates for Congress and several state and district offices. A Democratic nominee is as good as elected in Alabama.

The state's 52 Democratic convention delegates will be uncommitted but 46 of the 80 candidates told The Associated Press they favor Stevenson. Three were leaning toward Kefauver.

Republican convention delegates from Alabama will be named at district and state conventions later this month.

In what amounted to a general election, Sen. Lister Hill was opposed by John Crommelin, a retired admiral making his third try for a Senate seat.

Only two of Alabama's nine U. S. representatives were opposed in the primary.

Dispute Over Water Plagues Hammaraskjold

By ERIC GOTTGRETUE

JERUSALEM, May 1 (AP)—The old Arab-Israeli dispute over waters of the Jordan River arose again today to plague Dag Hammarskjold's search for peace.

The U. N. secretary general cancelled plans to fly to Rome tomorrow and will return to Damascus for another round of talks with Syrian officials.

Informed sources said he will make one more try for an unconditional cease-fire agreement between Israel and Syria, Jordan and Lebanon. Egypt and Israel already have agreed to a cease-fire along their frontier.

Demand

But informed sources said Syria has demanded that any new accord include an Israeli pledge not to resume work on plans for diverting the Jordan waters for power and irrigation projects.

The sources said Israel refused to accept the demand. The Israelis maintain the Jordan workings would be within Israeli territory and therefore have nothing to do with border questions.

Israel and her Arab neighbors have been feuding over the Jordan waters for years. Syria and Jordan, backed by the other Arab nations, have said they would consider any attempt by Israel to carry out her projects as aggression against their rights and interests.

The U. N. Security Council ordered Israel in 1954 to stop work on a diversion canal for a power project. Since then, the United States has made several vain attempts to get both sides to agree to a joint river development scheme.

Despite this setback, Hammarskjold was able to report a fresh success.

The U. N. truce supervision organization announced both Israel and Egypt have approved the establishment of U. N. observation posts and mobile patrols on the troubled border around the Gaza strip.

Recruited

Officials said 20 or 30 more truce observers would be recruited to man the new installations.

The arrangements aim to bolster the 1949 Egyptian-Israeli armistice agreement and especially the cease-fire along the demarcation line put into effect April 18 at Hammarskjold's request.

The secretary general, who began his peace mission here April 6 at the request of the U. N. Security Council, had planned originally to leave the Middle East tomorrow.

Informed sources said he changed his plans in hopes of working out some agreement acceptable to both in the Jordan waters dispute.

These sources said he plans to fly from Damascus to Cairo once more for still further talks with Egyptian leaders on implementation of the April 18 cease-fire agreement.

Despite the Egyptian-Israeli cease-fire, a Dutch KLM Dakota plane in the service of Egypt was intercepted by Israeli planes today and forced to land at Lydda Airport.

Representative Designs Stamp For Tax Law

HARRISBURG, May 1 (AP)—Rep. Strauss (R-Columbia) has designed a stamp for use in collecting the state's 3 per cent sales tax when the stamp plan goes into effect July 1.

Strausser proposed that stamps be issued for one, two, three, five and 50 cents, $1, $5 and $50. The stamps would be torn in half along a perforated line when the tax is paid and the portion given the purchaser could be returned to the state at 2 per cent of its face value.

Jury Recesses

WASHINGTON, Pa., May 1 (AP)—The Washington County grand jury investigating alleged political machine today recessed until next Monday without taking any action.

Alabama Democrats also voted for a 26-vote delegation to the party convention and nominated 11 presidential electors and candidates for Congress and several state and district offices. A Democratic nominee is as good as elected in Alabama.

Harloe Reinstated To East Stroudsburg Police Force

EDWARD M. HARLOE last night was reinstated as East Stroudsburg's assistant police chief by the unanimous vote of the borough council. Harloe was suspended from the force last Wednesday by Chief Burgess Jesse R. S. Flory, pending investigation into charges brought against the police officer by B. E. Weber of 19 Stemple St., a garage owner.

Council also agreed that Harloe should be paid for the period of his suspension.

Review

In reviewing the matter last night, Burgess Flory said he suspended the assistant police chief until the regular council session, upon receipt of Weber's complaint.

Flory said he invited Weber and his counsel to attend last night's council meeting to present evidence to support their charges. Neither the complainant nor his attorney appeared.

Prior to the council session, the police committee met with Harloe to determine "his reaction to these charges," said Councilman Robert R. Staples, committee chairman.

"Harloe denied the charges," Staples reported. "And upon the absence of Mr. Weber and his attorney we feel that Mr. Harloe should be reinstated, as of last Wednesday, with pay."

Move

Councilman Thomas Sexton thereupon moved that the full council concur with the recommendation of its police committee. The subsequent vote was without dissent.

"I'm quite happy about it," said Harloe after hearing the news. "My wife and mother and others have stuck by me through this entire matter."

"I have no animosity against anyone," he continued. "I hope that we can continue to have complete harmony in the police department. I'm just sorry that this thing had to happen," Harloe said.

Marine Corps Charges 'March' Sergeant With Manslaughter

WASHINGTON, May 1 (AP)—The Marine Corps accused S. Sgt. Matthew C. McKeon of manslaughter today, charging that—under the influence of vodka—he led six recruits to death by drowning with the threat that every man in the platoon would drown or be eaten by sharks.

At the same time the Marine commandant, Gen. Randolph McC. Pate, acknowledged the corps has been lax in supervising drill instructors. Pate ordered a drastic shakeup of the supervisory system including transfer to another post of Maj. Gen. Joseph C. Burger, commander of the Parris Island, S. C., depot where the drownings occurred.

Pate disclosed the actions to the House Armed Services Committee which then decided informally to hold off any investigation of its own until the General reports back, before this session of Congress ends, on progress made toward ending "mistreatment" of Leatherneck recruits.

Chairman Vinson (D-Ga.) advised this course, praising Pate for meeting a bad situation in a "forthright and courageous" manner.

Court-Martial

Specifically, the Marines recommended to Secretary of the Navy Charles S. Thomas that the 31-year-old McKeon be court-martialed on four counts and that two other sergeants, Elwyn B. Scarborough and Richard J. King, be disciplined by their commanding officer. They were alleged to have been drinking in McKeon's barracks on the day of the death march, April 8.

Besides manslaughter, the charges against McKeon are possession of alcoholic beverages and drinking in the presence of a recruit; and "oppression of recruits" by leading them without authorization on a night march Creek as punishment for alleged breaches of discipline during a smoking break.

A Marine court of inquiry said all three sergeants had been drinking vodka before the tragic episode — that McKeon "had been drinking off and on since late morning and the medical officer who examined him about two hours after the accident testified he was in possession of his faculties but had a suggestive odor of alcohol on his breath."

Before ordering the 74 recruits into the tidal stream, the report continued, McKeon asked if there were any nonswimmers in the outfit—and, when told there were, he "remarked that all recruits who could not swim would drown and those that could swim would be eaten by the sharks."

The night was dark and moonless. The platoon carried no lights. After 15 or 20 minutes in the water — plowing through deep, soft mud on the creek bottom with water up to the men's shoulders — "someone called for help," the report said, "and a general panic ensued."

Pate told the House group he (Please Turn To Page 14)

Mother Succumbs To Fire Injuries

BUFFALO, N. Y., May 1 (AP)—A 25-year-old mother died today of injuries suffered in a fire in nearby Depew last Friday that also took the lives of her husband and three-year-old daughter.

Mrs. Dorothy Mazur died at Sisters Hospital, where her five-month-old son, Joseph Jr., is reported in critical condition. The infant is the only surviving member of the family.

Legal Action Taken

PITTSBURGH, May 1 (AP)—A busy steel industry that soon must negotiate a labor contract with the United Steelworkers has taken legal steps to insure unity in event a dispute arises in coming talks with the union.

tee approved a plan that would give Pennsylvania's 60,000 teachers $500 extra during the current school term and the next school year beginning July 1. But that plan was returned to the committee when the Leader administration said there was no money for a teacher pay boost during the current year.

The administration favored a $200 increase for the next school year.

In addition to the immediate salary boosts the basic bill includes an improved pay schedule which would raise the minimum annual salary from $2,400 to $3,000.

Action Taken After Ruling By Court

WASHINGTON, May 1 (AP)—A Supreme Court order that the Subversive Activities Control Board reconsider its finding in the Communist party case resulted today in suspension of consideration of all cases before the board.

Thomas Herbert, chairman of the board, said the court order brought up procedural problems that would have to be studied and decided.

The board, acting under the 1950 internal security law, held hearings and decided that the Communist party was controlled by Moscow, and ordered it to register as such.

Ruling

Yesterday, the court held 6-3 that there was some challenged testimony in the board record that should be disposed of before the court could pass on the constitutionality of the law.

The testimony was given against the Communist party by Harvey Matusow, Manning Johnson and the late Paul Crouch. Lawyers for the party said they could prove these men lied.

The court decision left it up to the board to drop the challenged testimony from the case or give the party a chance to disprove it.

The board could order a new hearing or it could strike the challenged testimony from the record and proceed to make a new determination without it. Chairman Herbert did not indicate what it would do.

In calling a halt to consideration of other cases, the board cancelled a hearing scheduled for today into the National Negro Labor Council of Detroit.

May Day Shows Differ In Information

By The Associated Press

A RELIGIOUS note mingled with traditional parades, speeches and rioting in the observance yesterday in many nations on both sides of the Iron Curtain.

Pope Pius XII urged "the whole world of labor" to turn to Christ.

The Roman Catholic pontiff spoke before Italian Catholic Action Workers at St. Peter's Basilica in Rome in an observance of the liturgical feast of St. Joseph. He proclaimed the church holiday last year in a clear effort to strip May Day of violence and give it a more Christian direction.

May Day, designated by the International Socialist Congress in 1889 as a workers' holiday, is celebrated with particular enthusiasm within the Communist sphere, in parts of Western Europe, Latin America and the Orient. The United States and Canada stand aloof. They celebrate Labor Day the first Monday in September.

New Farm Bill Clears

WASHINGTON, May 1 (AP)—A new Democratic backed farm bill was cleared today for House consideration tomorrow.

The House Rules Committee gave the bill clearance in an atmosphere of surface amity contrasting sharply with the disputes of the past two weeks.

The House is scheduled to begin debate late tomorrow, and bring the bill to a final vote Thursday.

The bill, sponsored by Chairman Conley (D-NC) of the House Agriculture Committee, would give President Eisenhower the $1200,000,000 soil bank he wants as the feature of the administration's farm program.

Omits

It omits, however, his proposal for advance payments to farmers this year on contracts to withdraw a percentage of their croplands from surplus production next year.

At a White House conference earlier, Eisenhower and GOP Congressional leaders agreed to press the light for the prepayment provision in the face of strong Democratic opposition and charges it is an election-year "vote buying" device.

The Rules Committee set up a procedure which will permit the Republicans to offer as a substitute a straight soil bank bill with advance payment authority.

Finalists In National Miss America Pageant Receive Peek Into World Of Television

FINALISTS in the National Miss America Pageant receive a peek into the Television World, an opportunity which is given them by some home-town civic club or organization.

Exchange Club of East Stroudsburg is offering local young ladies the chance of a life-time to participate in the Miss Pocono Mountains contest, a preliminary contest of the Miss America Pageant.

The local contest will be staged in the East Stroudsburg State Teachers College auditorium on Saturday, May 19, and the winner will represent the Poconos in the state finals, held in West Chester sometime in July. The state winner who earns the title of Miss Pennsylvania 1957 will take part in the National Finals where Miss America 1957 is crowned.

Highlight

One of the highlights of the local contest will be the crowning of "Miss Pocono Mountains" by the present Miss Pennsylvania in person. A dress designer from Sinking Springs, Miss Pam Ulrich won over other Pennsylvania girls last year and relinquishes her crown in July to the new Miss Pennsylvania. The Exchange Club has said "Miss Pennsylvania 1956 might very well be our own Miss Pocono Mountains."

All expenses of the local winner and her chaperon will be paid to and from the state finals, where she is furnished a car bearing her title "Miss Pocono Mountains" during her stay in West Chester.

Girls wishing to vie for the Miss Pocono Mountains title are requested to contact the director, Mrs. Robert Miller, 906 Main St., Stroudsburg, or members of the Exchange Club. The age limit is 18-28. She must be a high school graduate by June, single, and desire to further her career.

Dr. Theodore A. Distler, Executive director of Association of American Colleges, is National Counsel for the Miss America Pageant $25,000 Scholarship Foundation, and reports more than a million in scholarships have been awarded since the inauguration of the scholarship foundation. More than 8,150 girls have benefited from the program. Of this number, 570 have had the opportunity of competing for the Miss America title in Atlantic City, but state contests and local contests benefit one way or another. 354 contestants were able to attend college in this country or abroad, plus special private lessons in music, dancing, dramatics and so forth.

Eleven of these girls, including Miss America 1956, have been awarded $3,000 scholarships for having captured the Miss America title.

Kunkletown Driver Cleared Of Charges

EASTON — Judge William A. Frack yesterday found Clair Borger, of Kunkletown, innocent of eight motor violation charges brought against him last July 17 by Lehigh Township police.

As a result of the judge's ruling, Borger will not have to pay fines totalling $135 on the charges which include speeding, passing stop signs, driving on the wrong side of the highway and ignoring a policeman's signal.

Report

Police Chief Harold F. Wleand and Officer Samuel Spadt said they chased Borger's car at high speed over the Blue Ridge Mountain at Danielsville, and at one point tried to upset him.

The question of their identification of the driver was raised, and two alibi witnesses testified Borger was elsewhere.

East Stroudsburg Residents Ask Council For Flood Repairs

Street Repairs To Be Made In Spring

SEVERAL residents of the Silk Mill Flats area of East Stroudsburg appeared at last night's borough council meeting to ask for various repairs to property damaged by the flood.

Council was asked if the borough couldn't replace dirt and sidewalk washed away in the flood, and make other repairs. Some of the residents appeared highly critical of the borough fathers for not being "interested" in their welfare.

However, Chief Burgess Jesse S. Flory remarked to one of them: "Your words are unfortunate. This council is interested and the untiring efforts of its members during the flood show their interest."

Council informed the petitioners that repairs to flood-damaged streets will be made this Spring and Summer. Other work also will be done by the borough.

"We've met with officials from Harrisburg and Washington several times," commented Councilman Herman Smeltz. "And we got money for street repairs. But believe me it takes time."

Councilman Robert R. Staples noted that his property was also damaged by the flood.

"Some people will just have to help themselves," said Staples. "Council just doesn't have the money."

However, council made it clear it was "sympathetic" to the plight of all flood victims.

Some of those attending last night reported that they had visions of a recurrence of the flood last Sunday night. Water was reported in many cellars because of Sunday's heavy rains.

"I was all set—bag and baggage," remarked one woman. "I hope something is going to be done because every time it rains we can go fishing right from our house."

"I didn't sleep a wink all Sunday night," she added.

In other action, council authorized its water committee to order as many meters as it "sees fit" for installation in borough business places.

Council also agreed after some discussion to adopt an assessment plan for the extension of water lines in the borough. The cost of installation would be met on a 50-50 basis.

Special Meeting

Council further set next Tuesday as the date for a special meeting, at which several important items will be considered.

The officials are expected to study a land-use map at that time which has been prepared by students of a geography class at the State Teachers College.

"It might save us many, many dollars," Borough Solicitor Charles Bensinger said of the map. "It is something the borough would need in carrying out any planning or zoning program."

Council will also discuss the writing of a resolution appealing for state funds for urban redevelopment. A total $5-million has been appropriated by the Commonwealth for this purpose, but local communities must approve resolutions requesting this aid before May 15.

Mayor Flory informed council that he had received notice that the Pocono Manor Association is applying to the Public Utilities Commission for the right to run a bus for patrons from East Stroudsburg to the Manor, and for short trips near the resort.

Council awarded contracts for various construction materials to the Portland Sand and Gravel Co., H. E. Imb, Inc., and to Shiffer's Bituminous Service.

It also voted to advertise for bids for a new police cruiser. Specifications will be prepared by council's police committee.

GOP Chairman Leonard Hall jumped into the discussion, saying: "I'll confront you with a figure you can compare with it—the $400,000 you borrowed from John L. Lewis."

Lions Club Hears Musical Organization

LIONS PRESIDENT Sy Katz at the meeting of the Stroudsburg Lions Club at the Penn-Stroud Hotel last night, was able to call to the attention of the members, a prime illustration of the value of music in club meetings and the splendid influence thereof on a meeting's success.

Through the interest of T. Manning Curtis of the Stroudsburg High School faculty, who was program chairman, the club was privileged to hear the young players of the Dixieland Band.

The organization, which had been functioning under the name of the Dixieland Band, was in the throes of changing their title to "The Harmonizers" and this was accomplished during the program. The listeners, however, agreed that under either name, they were wonderful.

Members

The personnel is as follows: Ernest Michelfelder Jr., trumpet; Robert Haigh, piano; Larry Van Why, drums; Pete Westbrook, string bass; John Miller, trombone; Jim Wallace, banjo and Don Harmer, clarinet.

Katz also had another musical surprise, namely song leading by Paul Bartholomew. Bartholomew has been inactive for a long time but is about to resume his activities and was warmly welcomed.

Curtis also introduced two attaches of State Teachers College, Richard Gloss and Carl Henthorne, one a speaker and the second an exemplar of athletics. They demonstrated the evils of overeating and illustrated some ways of reducing.

Dr. Paul Maxwell, who has been on a long vacation in Florida due to illness, returned to the club. Sam Monat is also back from vacation.

A get-well card was prepared for Julius Kessler, a patient in the General Hospital.

The annual election of officers will be held at the meeting of next Tuesday, and installation will be on Tuesday, June 5.

Senate Moves To Make It Easier For Aged People To Obtain Housing

It now seems more than likely Congress will make it easier for elderly people to obtain housing.

President Eisenhower twice has asked for special attention to this need, which is important economically as well as from the humane viewpoint. Now the Senate committee which deals with housing matters has approved easier mortgage insurance terms for elderly home-buyers, and it appears that people over 65 will be granted certain priorities in whatever new public housing is authorized.

The proportion of elderly people in the population has been growing and will continue to increase. As a result of better health conditions and medical care, Americans not only are living longer, but are capable of more years of useful work than their ancestors.

It is for the nation's good as well as their own that they have a chance to carry on actively as long as they can, and housing is important in this connection as well as job opportunities.

Elderly people's needs in housing, as in other things, are modest and simple. But many of them live alone, rather than with relatives as in former times. They should be able to find homes suitable for their needs and physical limitations, and within their financial range.

Veterans Themselves Oppose Practice Of Granting Benefits Indiscriminately

The suggestion by a special Presidential Commission that Government aid to veterans be limited to their readjustment period, except for the disabled, raises the question of what the veterans themselves think about it.

That will not be easy to answer, because a great majority of the 22 million veterans are not members of veteran organizations, indicating that most veterans think of themselves as "citizens first."

But one report on a related subject may shed some light.

Elmo Roper recently completed an opinion survey among veterans for the National Civil Service League, which is concerned with standards of employment in Government service. It found that veterans think there is too much "veteran preference" in the civil service.

They felt that if a Government payroll is being reduced the veteran jobholder should be kept, all things being equal, but that where the non-veteran has superior merit, or seniority, or extra dependents, he should have the job preference.

Of the veterans polled, 81 per cent took this stand.

That seems to indicate strongly most veterans are not in favor of indiscriminate benefits for everyone who happened to serve in the military—an obligation which, after all, falls on every citizen who may be needed in time of emergency.

The veterans realize, too, that they themselves are taxpayers who would have to share the cost of any handout program.

George Sokolsky Says . . .

Mutual Aid Strengthens Russia's Position; U.S. Give-Away Produces Only Neutralism

Nikita Khrushchev, in his famous speech at the 20th Congress of the Communist Party, made a most interesting and correct statement: "The main feature of our epoch is the emergence of socialism from within the bounds of a single country and its transformation into a world system. Capitalism has proved powerless to hinder this process of worldwide historic significance . . ."

The spread of socialism has been due to many causes, not the least of which, were two world wars, to which we may add the worldwide economic depression that started in 1929, the fall of many established institutions such as the Austro-Hungarian Empire and the general fear and insecurity arising from these conditions.

Socialism, in one form or another, has spread until it now encompasses nearly half of the human race. For instance, Norway, which we think of as a capitalist country, is in reality a socialist country although its socialism is vastly different from that of Soviet Russia or China.

The British Labour Party, which is a socialist party, had, during its years in power, socialized about 20 per cent of Great Britain's economy and it has not been possible for the Conservatives, now in power, to change back altogether.

Even in the United States, the economic system cannot be regarded as wholly capitalistic as the government guarantees nearly all sectors of the economy against possible losses. A free enterprise without risk is not free just as profits without the possibility of loss can only lead to excess and wasteful production and to incompetent management.

Ours can be called a mixed system which simultaneously contains elements that are both capitalist and socialist. The pull is naturally in the direction of increasing socialism because government subsidies tend to increase monopolies and monopolies destroy private enterprise.

Soviet Russia, according to Khrushchev, means to facilitate the increase of socialism and anticipates that more and more countries will become socialist. By mutual planning among these socialist countries, it will, no longer be necessary for each to make whatever is needed. He says this: " . . . Now, when there is a powerful community of socialist countries whose defense potential and security is based on the industrial might of the entire socialist camp, each European People's Democracy can specialize in developing those industries and producing those goods for which it has the most favorable natural and economic conditions . . ."

On this basis, he reports that Russia is aiding other countries to build 301 enterprises and more than 90 workshops and installations. Russia has granted these other countries long-term credits of 21 billion rubles. In a word, the socialist world is organizing a grid of mutually-serving industrial operations, based upon Russian aid which is designed to serve the socialist or ex-colonial countries. Whereas the amount is smaller than American contributions under the Marshall Plan and the various Mutual Security Plans, the results have been satisfactory to Russia.

It is to be noted that the socialist countries do not engage in give-away programs, but always exact an exchange of some kind. It is fatuous to say that the United States must give away its aid because it wants for nothing. We are, for instance, importing uranium and other minerals and metals. The technique of mutual aid, which the Russians cultivate, seems to strengthen their position, while our technique of direct subsidies to governments based on a concept of give-away has produced at best neutralism and at worst, enmities.

It would seem that in view of the Russian policy, so clearly defined by Khrushchev, it is essential that American policy be reviewed to determine whether it should be continued as is or should be revised or dropped altogether and something novel substituted. There can be no sense in continuing a policy which costs so much and which apparently is of so little advantage to us. The Congress cannot make the revisions because it lacks the facts which are withheld from it on the curious theory that Congress can legislate without knowledge which is now supposed to be the exclusive possession of the particular department engaged in the operation and not of the people of the United States. It is more intelligent to give us all the facts, for collectively, we are, the 155,000,000 of us, as wise, let us say, as Harold Stassen. It is difficult to convince the White House that secrecy can, in a free society, be a liability.

Commuters' Bridge Game Is Tinged With License

They must play a better game of bridge in Detroit than in some other cities I could mention, and will.

Detroit, unlike most other king-sized metropolises, has no king-sized commuting contingent, arriving from points as distant as 60-70 miles from the bustle of business. In the Michigan city there are no fast trains tooting beneath the surface toward a subterranean station, whence bread-winners emerge to take up the day's toil.

And since the northern city's motorists drive themselves to work in their own automobiles, one must assume their bridge playing is still uncorrupted. In Detroit, you could bid an opening two no-rump, and know within reason what your partner would respond. (But Mr. Becker, I had a count of 14, and this jerk he didn't indicate that king-nine . . .)

The sad truth of the commuting train is not that it is often late, draughty, or lacking a club car. It is simply that the act of commuting has caused a down draught in the game called bridge. Train games have deteriorated into a lap-table, hybrid card game employing the fast technique of dice throwing, the astute privacy of poker, and the sharp tongue-lashing of a prosecuting attorney caught with a perjured witness. (But Mr. Becker—I acted in self-defense, the bid was six diamonds and this—this—this—this character was void in the suit. . .)

You talk about discrimination and intolerance—try to get a seat which is reserved for the foursome boarding the car at South Norwalk. They will bring such dire penalties to bear for seat-snatching that you will be ostracized, ignored or worse.

So devoted are train bridge players to their matutinal deck-shuffling, they have been known to resist transfer to the Middle West at substantial promotion—just to keep the foursome together. One poor woman rose at 5:30 A.M. for years, making breakfast for her hubby so he could dash for the 6:30 New Haven train, before discovering accidentally that he could have taken the 8:12 all along. But his crowd played on the 6:30, and he could hardly lie abed while they scoured the train for a fourth. Now could he?

Wives, strange as it would seem, approve highly of this diversion for working husbands. If only they played the game as it was designed to be played, all would be well. But when a certain fencepost around Port Chester looms in sight and the score shows 1000 points deficit—something has to happen. Grand Central is only minutes away. Time is running out. And the bidding gets psychic from there on. Nothing but game is considered worthy of time spent; and woe to any who stop short of a slam if slam is indicated.

In fact, woe to the game itself. Commuting trains are to blame and somebody ought to get up a petition protesting the liberties being taken with contract bridge. Next thing you know they will be calling one-eyed Jacks wild.

Try and Stop Me —by Bennet Cerf

Montaigne, whose essays every college freshman has to tackle, died in his French chateau way back in 1592, promising his friends and servants, "I will willingly come back from the other world to give the best of advice who portrays me other than I was, even if it is to flatter my memory."

Historian Donald Frame calls attention to the fact that although somebody in all the ensuing years must have portrayed Montaigne other than he was, there is no evidence that the essayist ever carried out his threat. "Or maybe," adds Frame, "Montaigne is so far behind in his haunting that he'll never catch up."

Robert S. Allen Reports

Humphrey, Knowland Unite Behind Civil Rights Measure

Washington, May 1—An unusual civil rights coalition is under way in the Senate.

land, Calif.

Purpose of this proposed bipartisan alliance is the enactment this year of the four-point civil rights program recommended by Attorney General Brownell with the approval of President Eisenhower.

Pooling forces on this issue was Humphrey's idea. He sought out Knowland on it.

"If Northern Republicans and Democrats will work together," said Humphrey, "I am firmly convinced that civil rights legislation can be passed at this session. I think the time is ripe to get that done in the Senate."

Knowland agreed, with a reservation.

"I think it can be done," replied Knowland, "provided the legislation is moderate and in line with what the Administration favors."

That requirement was acceptable to Humphrey. He expressed satisfaction with the Administration's program, and willingness to support it. But Humphrey stressed that bipartisan backing is essential to enact the plan.

"We have got to have 16 or 18 Republican votes," he declared.

"I can promise you that a majority of the Republican senators will vote for the right kind of legislation," asserted Knowland. "If you people will get it before the Senate, we will back it."

Knowland pointed out that it's up to the Democrats to take the lead as they control the Judiciary Committee.

"We'll help you in every way we can to get the bill out of the committee," said Knowland, "but your side will have to carry the ball. We can't do it alone."

"I fully understand," agreed Humphrey. "We've both got to do our utmost, and working together we can win. Matter of fact, I believe we will get Southern support for a moderate civil rights program. There are Southern senators who will vote for that."

They are men of courage and character and ability, and I honestly think they will go along on a fair and reasonable bill."

"We Republicans will do our best to give them the chance," replied Knowland.

The measure considered acceptable by the two Senate leaders, as a "working basis" for a coalition, is the one approved last week by the House Judiciary Committee. It calls for: (1) A new civil rights division in the Justice Department; (2) empowers the Attorney General to prosecute civil rights violations; (3) bars state and local restrictions on voting; (4) creates a bipartisan commission on civil rights.

land, Calif.

He wants a bigger budget for that. The Army's new budget for chaplains is $451,000. When Major General Patrick J. Ryan, chief of chaplains, appeared before the House Appropriations Committee, Flood expressed doubt about the adequacy of this amount.

"Seems to me, General," said Flood, "that the minuscule size of this fund must be heartening to the devil. He ought to be getting a lot of comfort out of it."

"We believe we can get along on this," replied Ryan.

"It isn't very much with which to fight the forces of evil," insisted Flood. "After all, $451,000 is hardly visible in a budget in excess of $35,000,000,000."

"If we find we need more, we will ask for it," promised Ryan. "Don't hesitate," urged Flood. "You come to me and I'll go to bat for you."

Still Increasing—Subsidies for the airlines are still going up.

Nothing has come of those hopeful estimates by officials of the Civil Aeronautics Board that these multi-million dollar payments would decrease. That's what they told congressional leaders during 1955 budget hearings, but those assurances aren't being borne out.

That was admitted at a private meeting by Ross Ritzley, CAB chairman who has resigned to become a federal judge. He was sharply questioned by Representative John Rooney (D, N. Y.), who has long been trying to slash airline subsidies.

"From my way of seeing it," said Rooney, "the CAB's request for subsidies is larger this year than last."

Ritzley agreed. "That is probably correct."

"It is definitely correct," reported Rooney. "Subsidies for all the airlines in the current budget are $123,277,000, and for 1957, they come to $146,486,000. That amounts to more than $23,000,000 above this year's subsidies."

Ritzley conceded that was accurate.

"What I want to know," continued Rooney, "is the reason for this increase, particularly in view of the fact that last year we were assured these subsidies would be reduced. Instead, we are now asked for more money than before. That's a very strange kind of reduction."

Extensive airline expansion Ritzley explained, necessitates more subsidies.

My New York

—by Mel Heimer

New York — Things one New Yorker thinks about:

In my hot-headed desire to be different, it seems I've missed something. I decided on my recent trip to Havana that all tourists visit the elaborate new Tropi-cana night club, so why should I? Now I learn that the dancing star there, doing highpower voodoo ritual dances that out-Cuba anything dreamed up by native Cuban dancer — is a 22-year-old New York girl named Tybess Afr.

This, of course, makes Miss Afr a messenger with coals to Newcastle. . . . And from the harshest circuit, The last time many New Yorkers spied Tybess, she was hissing at the Concord hotel in Monticello, N. Y., a plush hotel decorated by her father. I am told that he smothered in Cuba for the season, has the whole Tropi-cana chorus line dining now on cream cheese and lox, in place of arroz con pollo.

Nicole Maurey, the French actress who's in the new The Bold and the Brave, dropped by for a talk the other day and reported that, after three years of learning English, she now dreams in it. "My husband," she said reflectively, "told me that after a personal appearance that ended in Boston, I awoke him one night by muttering in my sleep, 'No, no—don't take the picture yet! My lips, it is not ready!'" . . . Perry Como's not the only full-

Has there ever been gathered together in one room as many millionaires as will be in the Waldorf's Sert Room on May 10 for the annual "Horatio Alger" awards? Among those who rose "in the American tradition, from humble beginnings to great success" and who will be on hand are Conrad Hilton, Thomas Watson, Sr., Gen. David Sarnoff, Robert Young, et al. Walters To Play Male Lead In Production Of 'Brigadoon' At College On Friday, Saturday

THE MALE lead in the Community Chorus production of "Brigadoon" will be played by Richard Walters.

"Brigadoon" will be staged two nights Friday and Saturday—in State Teachers College auditorium.

Walters will be seen as "Tom Albright". He is well-known in this area for his solo work with various churches and charity shows. He has studied singing with several reputable teachers and has done radio work in the Allentown-Bethlehem area. He has been with the local chorus two years and is a member of the Shawnee Singers.

The part of "Fiona MacLaren", the female lead in the play will be played by Sally Ferrebee, a relative newcomer to the Stroudsburg area. Mrs. Ferrebee has established herself as a solo artist before local organizations. Her program, "Tonight at 8:30" has been given before many such groups.

She was a soloist with the Bethany Lutheran Church choir in West Reading for several years and has joined both the Community Chorus and the Shawnee Singers since coming to The Stroudsburgs.

At least one of the "stars" in "Brigadoon" won't be seen much by the audience—barring a curtain call. He's Lou Metz, the stage manager.

In his job with "Brigadoon" Metz will be basically concerned with such extraordinary phenomena as "controlling mists and making persons appear ectoplasimically onstage, when they're really not supposed to be there at all."

Metz has been with Fred Waring's Pennsylvanians for 17 years, in various capacities, including seven years as stage manager for the group. He was also stage and company manager for a Waring group, "The Festival of Song."

Metz will probably be best remembered locally for his work on "The Emperor's New Clothes" and "Our American Heritage," the two most recent major chorus productions, in which he acted as stage manager also.

Metz is the chorus group's foremost example of the guy who's too good at the job he does best. A man with a strong yen to vocalize rather than put the production on the road, Lou is yet to be heard by local audiences.

The reason: Metz keeps the backstage part of the production running so smoothly that he's very nearly the indispensable man.

Helen Hayes Decides To Make Paris Motion Picture

NEW YORK, May 1 (AP)—Helen Hayes has decided to make a motion picture in Europe this summer.

"It is always best to keep the mind fully occupied after tragedy," a close friend explained, referring to the veteran star's sorrow since the death of her husband, playwright Charles MacArthur, 10 days ago.

Congressmen Attack Claims Settlement

WASHINGTON, May 1 (AP)—

Two congressmen today attacked the procedures of the Foreign Claims Settlement Commission in denying compensation claims of former Korean War prisoners because of derogatory information against them.

Rep. Ashley (D-Ohio) said the commission used "secret and unsubstantiated" information of enemy collaboration against a veteran without his having a chance to see it and answer it.

Rep. Quigley (D-Pa.) said a former POW has "no opportunity for a fair American hearing." He asked that the procedures be changed.

Testimony

The congressmen testified before the House Interstate and Foreign Commerce Committee. A dozen members of the House either testified or submitted statements to the committee concerning bills they have to amend the foreign claims settlement and trading with the enemy acts.

One of the measures, by Rep. Becker (R-NY), would provide payment of $250 a day to a veteran of World War II or Korea for each day he spent in "evading capture."

Another, by Rep. Cole (R-NY), authorizes the immediate sale of alien properties after a finding by the President that it is in the national interest to do so. The proceeds of such sales would be impounded until final judicial determination of legal ownership.

Plutonium Dumped In Sea

BLACKPOOL, England, May 1

Atomic expert H. J. Dunster told a Royal Health Society conference Britain has buried "hot" plutonium waste that cannot be handled safely for 600 years.

In 2536, he said, tanks loaded with the waste can be dug up and dumped into the sea. Less dangerous waste now is taken 2,000 miles out into the Atlantic and sunk in drums.

Sure starts a lot of Torque—

Buick Super 6-Door Passenger 2-Door Riviera, Model 56R

even before you Switch the Pitch

TORQUE is for take-off—and there's plenty of it here.

You just apply a puny bit of pressure on the pedal—and you're off and away. Never has such quick acceleration been so smooth.

It's the newest step-up in Variable Pitch Dynaflo®—and it gives a double-barreled thrill.

First, it delivers a record amount of torque to turn those rear wheels—even before you switch the pitch. You spurge on pickup while saving on gas.

The second is for real zoom service. Just put your foot down—and there you have it. You switch the pitch and Dynaflo serves up a dazzling burst of extra power to cut seconds off your passing—and add new safety to it.

But there's a lot more than torque to talk about.

There's Buick styling. Its flair and sweep alone have started many a conversation. On lines that are daring, but not reckless. On colors and interiors that are gay and stunning, but never garish.

And there's the Buick ride. Unlike any other. Softer, yet steadier. Cradling you in rubber-bubble comfort—leveling with you on every twist and turn.

A whole group of unseen marvels screen you from the harsh realities of the road. Including a new front-end geometry—new deep-oil-cushioned shock absorbers—new deep-coil springs on all four wheels. And there are new stabilizers and a new torque tube, to snub out any swing or sway.

In short, there's so much excitement from stem to stern—in any Buick you can buy—that Buick owners have a whale of a lot to talk about.

So why not take a Buick out on the road yourself, so you'll know what all the talk's about? Don't say you can't afford it until you hear us talk price. We're ready whenever you are.

*New Advanced Variable Pitch Dynaflo is the only Dynaflo Buick builds today. It is standard on Roadmaster, Super and Century—optional at modest extra cost on the Special.

Period Design Entering Kitchen

PERIOD DESIGN is entering the kitchen, ushered in by the variations possible in decorating modern wood kitchen cabinets.

One of the popular trends in wood kitchen designs is the colonial motif. The starting point is to use the popular early American wood—maple—or to have cabinets of another light wood such as birch or gum and finish them to look like maple.

Next, scallop the valance over the sink in a colonial pattern. Then be sure to have hinges, door pulls and drawer handles that are large in size and made of copper or a hammered metal. Use copper elsewhere—in pots and pans and serving utensils—for more of the deep, tone that highlights the warmth and beauty of the wood cabinets.

Pattern

Finally, choose a cobblestone pattern for the flooring, and your kitchen would do credit to Paul Revere.

It is just as easy to establish other motifs in wood kitchens. For example, western flavor can be introduced by using a western wood such as pine or fir for the cabinets. Select colors for the walls, curtains and flooring from among the yellow, red and brown tones to suggest the desert and the sun.

Even a Provincial mood can be established by finishing the cabinets in a darker tone, using ornate hardware, and scribbling delicate lines in the wood in the tradition of fine European furniture.

For attractive contemporary design, the elements are few—smooth wood cabinets, either painted or finished naturally, semi-concealed hardware, and a built-in wall oven and surface cooking unit.

Some manufacturers produce cabinets in colonial as well as contemporary designs. Or you can achieve the variation you want by specifying the type of hardware and finish when you order the cabinets—or by doing the finishing yourself.

Objects Hold Key To Paint

THE COLOR of attractive objects that you buy for use in your kitchen quite often has a bearing on the hue of the paint you purchase to redecorate the walls and woodwork of your household workshop. As a consequence, you are feeling the effects of mass market selling in your own home.

According to the New York Journal of Commerce, a recent study of the colors which produce the most sales reveals that the hues most popular with the American public today are vermilion, soft yellow, yachting blue and emerald green.

Consumers whose income is above average go for coral, turquoise blue, avocado green, navy blue, copper and brown. Rising in esteem are such colors as pearl gray, chartreuse, forest green, burgundy, rose and black.

Replacing Saw Blades An Art

WHEN REPLACING blades in a hacksaw or coping saw, remember that the points should incline away from the handle.

This allows all the cutting to be done on the down stroke with the power of your arm, and allows the lighter back stroke to clear debris from the cut.

A SMALL HOUSE PLANNING BUREAU DESIGN NO. C-395

DESIGN C-395. A narrow lot usually presents problems of planning, especially if an attached garage with a front drive-in is required.

In this case the garage is incorporated under the main roof and results in a narrow rectangular plan. Designs call for frame construction, hip roof, wide siding, picture window, covered front entrance and brick planter.

There is a full basement, except under the garage, and the first floor consists of vestibule, living room, three bedrooms, bath, and a large, well-arranged combination kitchen-dinette.

Storage space is provided for in large wardrobe closets, linen cabinet, broom closet and two coat closets.

Floor area is 1121 sq. ft. and cubage is 21,489 cu. ft., not including garage.

For further information about DESIGN C-395, write the Small House Planning Bureau, St. Cloud, Minn., In Canada, the Small House Planning Bureau of Canada, St. John, New Brunswick.

Pipe Makes Ideal Clothes Pole In Lengthy Closets

IF THE WOODEN clothes poles in long closets creak and groan, or sag and threaten to break when a new load of hanged clothes is added, replace them with pipe.

Ordinary one-inch-diameter iron pipe will do the job and will have the strength to hold up under heavy loads.

Black

If painting is planned, use black iron. Galvanized pipe should be used if the metal is to be left unprotected.

Wood For Door Styles Simplified

GRADES for America's most popular door style—the hardwood plywood flush door—have been simplified to make identification easier for home owners, builders and architects. Action was taken by the National Woodwork Manufacturers Association.

The new NWMA grades are coordinated with those of the Hardwood Plywood Institute. The grade names are Premium, Good and Sound.

Premium

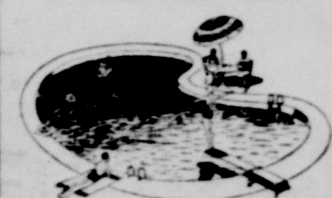

Premium grade doors will have face veneers selected and matched for color. Good grade doors are suitable for natural finish and Sound grade for paint finish.

Coating the bark of rustic furniture with varnish will help prevent it coming loose and peeling off. Once the process has started, about the only cure is to drive small nails or tacks through the loose bark into the wood.

Leaves Cause Damage

KEEP TREE leaves off of roof gutters. When leaves become moist they produce an acid which is harmful to many types of metal gutters. They also cause wood gutters to rot and their weight, when wet, can pull the gutter loose from its mountings.

Grain Of Wood Major Gluing Factor

WHEN GLUING wood for cabinet or furniture work, remember that dampened wood expands more across the grain than with it. Be sure that both pieces of wood meet with their grain at the same angle, or the joint may crack while drying. Glue dries best and makes the strongest joints when the temperature in the room is 70 degrees or above. If the wood must be clamped with blocks while it is drying, put a layer of waxed paper between glued joint and block. This will prevent the glue from sticking to the block.

File Care

When filing metal, be sure to do all of the cutting with the forward motion of the file. If heavy pressure is used on the back stroke, it will close the file grooves by bending over the undercut ridges. To clean a file or rasp, keep a file card (a stiff metal, brush-like tool) and a wire brush handy. Use the file card to clean the harder deposits, the wire brush for the remainder. When filing paint or rasping wood, use the wire brush often to prevent the grooves and teeth from becoming clogged and riding over the work. Brush a little oil over the file faces to prevent rust.

Laying Asphalt Tile Tough

BE CAREFUL about laying asphalt tile in cold weather. If the tiles have been outdoors where the temperature is low, they will become brittle and break easily.

It's best if you store them indoors in a room heated to at least 70 degrees before you attempt to use them. The same thing holds true of linoleum.

Wasting Oil

IF THE IGNITION system of your burner isn't working fast, so as to ignite the oil quickly, you are wasting oil.

Victorian Decorations Still Popular In Modern Homes

MANY OF THE COLORS that were used in Victorian schemes of decoration were in a low key—deep browns, for instance, dark purplish reds and bottle greens.

During those petunia-colored years, some of the decorators displayed a knack of combining deep burgundies, blues that ranged from misty ice-blue to the deepest sapphire, velvety pansy tones of purple and clear yellow and fuchsia shades that combined gracefully with pale grays of soft olive greens.

Effective

Some of these combinations, incidentally, are particularly effective in modern rooms and are worthy of consideration when you plan the repainting of your home.

When anything is spilled on marble, wipe it off immediately, then wash the surface.

Dust
To remove dust and oily deposits, wash a marble surface with suds of warm water and a mild soap or detergent. If the surface is unpolished, use a fiber brush or coarse cloth to scrub. Rinse well and wipe dry with a chamois to prevent streaking.

Laundry Starch Protects Walls

A GOOD way to protect painted kitchen walls and ceilings is to give them a coat of laundry starch. Use one cup of starch to each quart of water. Apply it with a paint roller.

You'll end up with a transparent coating which can be easily removed when it becomes soiled and replaced with a fresh coat of starch.

Amateurs bought 150 million rolls of wallpaper in the United States in 1953.

Stroudsburg Kiwanis Club To Handle Chores At WVPO

MEMBERS OF STROUDSBURG Kiwanis Club will move in and "take over" radio station WVPO Thursday. That's "K-Day".

It's a friendly invasion. And all in the interest of a good cause. The "announcers" will be beating the drum for "Brigadoon."

From 7 a. m. to 8:15 p. m., Kiwanians will do the announcing on the station. So if you notice a new flourish or a touch of assurance in a new voice, don't switch the dial—it's still WVPO.

This year's Community Chorus production, the long-run Broadway hit "Brigadoon" by Frederick Lowe and Alan Jay Lerner, is to be seen Friday and Saturday nights at State Teachers College auditorium. Kiwanis Club is sponsoring the chorus presentation.

Promotion
The club is also promoting a "Brigadoon" word contest. Winners in that contest will be announced at 7:30 p. m. on K-Day, the name given to the all-Kiwanis day on radio.

Members of the club whose voices will be heard during K-Day will be the following: Rev. Roger Stinson on "Design for Living"; Bill Wells on the "Wickoff Shopper" show; Walter McClelland, Dale Lears, Danny Warner, Dr. LeRoy J. Koehn, Bill Walters, M. S. Baldwin, Dethoff Hansen, John Watt, Al Teiper, Tom Campbell, Hank Kresge, Numa Snyder, Al Munson, Harry Sutton, Elwood Hantz, Elwood German, Ray Price, Jerry Stafflet, Chester Miller.

Tickets for the show are on sale at Cole's Drug Store, East Stroudsburg; Rex and Dorick's, Flagler's Drug Store and the gift wrap counter at Wyckoff's in Stroudsburg. They'll also be available at the door on nights of performances.

FROM THE PAST: SCENES OF DEVOTION—For Mr. and Mrs. Clyde Dietrich, Chestnuthill Township, this scrapbook offers a glimpse of the almost endless parade of foster children they have helped to rear. They are Monroe County's oldest foster home in terms of service to the Community Chest agency, Children's Aid Society of Monroe County. They've been named CAS "Foster Family of the Year." (Photo By Randolph)

Aid Society Picks Dietrichs As 'Foster Family Of Year'

By Leonard Randolph
DURING THE past 24 years Mr. and Mrs. Clyde Dietrich have cared for 10 children who were not their own.

The Dietrichs live on a quiet farm in Chestnuthill Township near McIlhenny. Since 1932 Clyde Dietrich and his wife have been serving as a foster family for the Children's Aid Society of Monroe County.

This year Children's Aid Society has chosen the Dietrichs to be its "Foster Family of the Year." The couple will be honored at the Society's annual meeting on May 22, to be held at the YMCA in Stroudsburg.

The Dietrichs were recently honored at the annual meeting of The Children's Aid Societies of Pennsylvania. The meeting was held in Harrisburg. It was attended by several directors of the local CAS agency.

Quiet Day

For Clyde Dietrich and his wife, their service as foster parents began on a relatively calm and quiet day in their own home. They had a son who was then 12 years old. But the house was a large one. And there was plenty of room in it for other children.

The Dietrichs came to serve with Children's Aid much the same as many other Monroe County families have in the past. They volunteered. A large part of their reason for volunteering was their love for children and their understanding of them.

Within a few weeks, CAS placed the first child with the family. The Dietrichs' "first foster child" was a five-month-old baby. In a matter of days the foster mother and father had settled into their new routine. Life in the household grew centrally around the "new baby."

With that first child the Dietrichs established a pattern which was to be repeated again and again. They treated the helplessness and otherwise "homeless" child just as they would treat one of their own.

A few weeks later, the baby was "reunited" with his older brother and sister. In keeping with CAS policy, whenever possible, all three children in the broken family were being kept together. Not all foster parents would be able to care for three additional children. But the Dietrichs were. And the arrangement worked out very well.

Important Fact

Early in their "career" as a foster family, Clyde and his wife learned an all-important fact: That each child may be completely different. And that each child requires a certain, positive adjustment on the part of the foster parent.

Some of the children who came to the Dietrich farm were upset and badly "disturbed" emotionally. A few were slow in learning or retarded to a degree mentally. Some needed only temporary care while their own homes were being reestablished, with CAS help, in a matter of months. But some of the children stayed with the Dietrichs for years.

Looking back on those 24 years, Mr. and Mrs. Dietrich think only lightly of the problems they have had to face. Most of the time they remember the laughter of children ("Nobody loves the sound of children's voices more than Clyde does," Mrs. Dietrich says.), the childish jokes, the excitement of a dozen crowded holidays, the small achievements which have made both the man and his wife see beyond the year in which they have lived to the lives they have helped to make.

Not all their work as foster parents has been gratifying, of course. There have been some disappointments, some outright failures. But for each of these there has been a marked example of decency and kindness and strength in a young child they have cared for.

Only Parents

Most of their foster children have learned to call them Mom and Pop. To some of these children, the Dietrichs have been the only mother and father they've known.

Many changes have taken place on the Dietrich farm and in the home, just as the faces of the children have changed with each passing year. But the quality of selflessness has remained in the hearts of the Dietrichs and their large family of foster children.

At the Harrisburg meeting, Mrs. Donald Gilpin, president of the Monroe County CAS, reported on agency work during the past year. Other delegates attending from the board of directors were: Mrs. Frank L. Patterson Jr., Mrs. B. I. Fansler, Mrs. Horace Butler, Miss Elizabeth Martin, Mrs. Thomas Knepp, Mrs. Ralph Turn Jr., and from the staff, Mrs. Jean L. Albert, Mrs. A. G. Gearhart and Miss Ethel West, executive secretary of the Monroe County Community Chest and Council. Children's Aid Society is one of the 12 participating member agencies in the Chest.

Defense Drops Exam

PHILADELPHIA, May 1 (AP) — The defense today abandoned its cross examination of Georgia convict Edward C. Nixon, 32, without changing his statement that Raymond P. Wilson, 33, and a pal killed a wealthy widow and robbed her of about $200,000.

While the story of the state's star witness held up under the defense grilling, Dist. Atty. Victor H. Blanc caused a sensation—outside the courtroom—when he disclosed an unknown person "who had a Midwestern accent" offered him a $60,000 "bribe" if Wilson got off.

Blanc said he had received five telephone calls since Thursday—the latest shortly before last midnight—in which he was urged to "throw" the case against Wilson.

Mathematics Tournament Date Set

THE SIXTH annual county tournament sponsored by the Monroe County Mathematics Club will be held Wednesday, May 9 in the American Legion Hall, East Stroudsburg.

Registration for the day-long series of events will begin at 9:15 a. m. The main purpose of the tournament is to create interest in mathematics and encourage students with special interests in the field. There are six major divisions.

Arithmetic competition is for eighth grade students only. General mathematics is designed for ninth graders only. Algebra One will be open only to those students who are completing that course this year and have had no higher math studies.

Testing in this division will include problems from all mathematics covered in the four years of high school.

A time limit of one hour is set for each test. Each school may enter students in any or all the divisions. An entry fee of 50 cents is charged per student. Names of all students, the division they wish to compete in and the entry fee have been sent to Elwood F. Arndt, Stroudsburg, RD. 3.

Awards

Awards will be presented to both individual and team winners. Each contestant will be given a certificate for participating in the contest. One faculty member must accompany contestants from each school entered. Entrants have to bring their own supplies of pencils and paper, according to Raymond R. Serfass, club president.

Chairmen for the tournament are Serfass and Charles Arnold. Other committee heads are: Elwood F. Arndt, program; Edward Bosman, publicity; Julia Sieg, awards; Ruth Flory and Harold Lee, certificates; Lester Dimmick, arrangements.

About 225 students have been entered from the following Monroe County schools: Stroud Union, East Stroudsburg Area, Chestnut-hill, Pocono, Barrett, Coolbaugh, Smithfield and Hamilton.

McKinney Wedding At Canadensis

Miss Catherine Genovese, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Clement Genovese, of 12 Hospital Street, Canadensis, and Thomas McKinney Jr., of Mountainhome, son of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas McKinney Sr., of Cresco, were married in the Canadensis Methodist Church on April 24, at 3 o'clock. Rev. Edgar B. Moore performed the ceremony.

The church was decorated in chrysanthemums, lilies and forsythia.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a floor-length gown of Chantilly lace and tulle. The lace formed the bodice and long sleeves and layers of tulle net covered the skirt of sweetheart satin. The illusion neckline was topped by a standing collar of lace trimmed with sequins and pearls. A crown of sequins and pearls held her finger tip veil. She carried a white prayer book with white orchids and streamers caught with white ribbons.

Miss Violet L. DeTurk, of Tipton, was the maid of honor. She wore a turquoise gown of nylon tulle, with a head piece of seed pearls and matching tulle. She carried a cascade bouquet of red roses.

John McKinney, of Mountainhome, was the best man, and the ushers were Neil Genovese, of Fanwood, N. J., and Harold Snyder, of Saylorsburg.

A dinner at the First Presbyterian Church, Canadensis, was followed by an 8:30 reception at the home of the bride's parents with 100 guests. After a tour of Virginia and Washington, Mr. and Mrs. McKinney are making their home at Oakland Park, Mountainhome. For traveling the bride wore a beige and print sheath and redingote ensemble with matching accessories and an orchid corsage.

The former Mrs. Austin has been a well-known personnel consultant with offices in Philadelphia for many years, and Mr. Leight is in charge of stores for the Judson C. Burns Company. Both have been frequent visitors to the Poconos in the past, and are known to many in this area. Mr. Leight's son, Earl, acted as best man for his father, and Mrs. Harold N. MacMurray was matron of honor. An unusual feature was that the bride was given in marriage by her two sons, David, of Meadowbrook, Pa., and Cary of Riverton, N. J. Martin W. Miller, organist of the Mountainhome Church, was at the console during the service, and played the "Wedding March."

Just Between Us

—By Bobby Westbrook

Some people have the happy faculty of making it seem that where they are there is a pleasant place to be. And they do it with sort of a reverse twist by making you believe that the reason it's so pleasant is because you're there with them.

Which is why I so enjoyed my birthday visit with Mrs. Mae Kerr, yesterday. Her body may be house bound but her mind roams the wide-world and comes up with some fascinating information.

And you'd be surprised, too, how well she keeps up with your activities and rejoices with your triumphs and prays for you in time of trouble. Distracted by the passing show, many of the most mobile of us miss a lot that she catches.

And in this merry month of May, there's an awful lot to miss. The field by our house has turned blue with violets and the birds are cutting arabesques against the blue sky over it. You have the feeling they should be linked in terms of two carrying little banners that say "Spring" or "May is the Month of Flowers."

Even the heart which feels no answering life, even the mind which clings so grimly to earthbound, pedestrian things can't keep the body from responding and you walk through the May morning as if you had no weight and sort of expand under the warmth of the sun like a balloon rising.

Mrs. Mae Kerr Celebrates 85th Birthday

Mrs. Joseph Kerr yesterday celebrated her 85th birthday at her home on Thomas and Sixth Street, her health, eyesight, spirits and interest in the world as sparkling as ever, and only the broken hip she suffered in a fall a year and a half ago keeping her tied to her wheelchair.

Born on May 1, 1871, she was the first girl in the Michaels family, since her brothers George and Walter were older. She was named Mae in honor of her birth month. Always active in church and community affairs, Mrs. Kerr was especially noted for her dramatic readings. In fact one of them she learned as child, "The Old Church Organ," she still remembers letter-perfect and even recited it on the radio not too long ago.

She has always been an avid reader, and since her fall keeps up with events and the people she knows and their children and grandchildren through the newspaper, and with the current thought through her books. Her daughter, Kathryn, a former teacher who is also confined to a wheel chair, shares her interest in reading. Her son, Frank, of East Stroudsburg, was for many years a leading figure in local dramatic productions and also acted professionally for a short time. He is now part owner of the Easton Dental Supply Co.

Mrs. Kerr is a member of the First Presbyterian Church of Stroudsburg, and many of the cards and a basket of fruit she received yesterday were from church members who remember her many contributions to their activities.

Fethermans At Syracuse For Concert

Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Fetherman, Stroudsburg, and Mrs. Fetherman's mother, Mrs. Alice Shupp, have returned from Syracuse University where they spent the weekend. Highlight of their visit to their daughter, Ruth, a freshman at the university, was the performance of "The Passion of Our Lord According to St. Matthew," by Bach, given by the University Chorus, the Chapel Choir and the University Symphony Orchestra.

Ruth, a graduate of Stroudsburg High School, where she was a member of the chorus, pianist, band and orchestra, is in the Chapel Choir. More than 350 students took part.

Graffiti, contrary to popular conception, are very swift runners.

When our barbecue expert was here the other day, we noticed he used a paste of brown sugar, moistened with Crosse & Blackwell's malt vinegar, to coat the hams he prepared. The result was the tastiest, tenderest meat ever served in our employees' lounge. Later, I am told, he prepared another ham, using brown sugar and Spice Islands red wine vinegar from our Wyckoff candy department.

Spice Islands, you know, is available in barbecue sets that contain just about every type of seasoning you might require in outdoor cooking. One very complete set, priced at $2.75, was displayed in conjunction with the Sears grill demonstration. Incidentally, a communication just received from the Spice Islands Company reveals that these very fine products will be featured today on NET-TV's "Home Show." They will be "on camera" much of the time, for the entire program will revolve around spices and their uses.

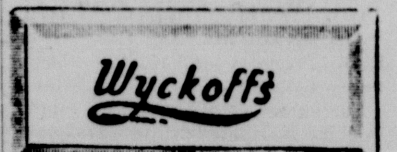

Elsie Miller tells me that Spice Islands' Beau Monde is perhaps the most popular seasoning of all time, so far as our men customers are concerned. "They taste it back in the Tea Room and invariably stop to buy some for use at home. In fact, some of them buy two jars at a time." Beau Monde, if you ask me, is the "salt of the earth." It is perfect on fresh vegetable salads, in cooked dishes, and sprinkled over meats or fish. One very young lady even uses it on ICE CREAM. . . . but I think I'd draw the line at that!

Karen Kemple (Mrs. Allen Roth) was a guest yesterday morning on our Wyckoff Shopper broadcast, and made the Community Chorus' forthcoming production of "Brigadoon" sound so entrancing, I can't imagine anyone missing it. When one considers that she has had only one month to transform non-dancing men and women into stars whose art can compare favorably with our memories of such professionals as Cyd Charisse and Gene Kelly is the same roles, one realizes what a gargantuan undertaking our local singers cut out for themselves. "After all," says Karen, "this is as much a dancing show as a singing one."

We are positive the show will be a brilliant success, and that you'll have a wonderful evening whether you go to the College this coming Friday night or Saturday. Our Kiwanis Club is sponsoring the production, and if you haven't already heard about it, it certainly is not because they're hiding their light under a bushel. They've been shouting "BRIGADOON" from the housetops for weeks. . . . a fact we are well aware of here at Wyckoff's, since Bill Wells happens to be THEIR president and OUR fashion merchandising manager.

To tell you the truth, even if one escaped Bill's high pressure salesmanship, "Brigadoon" would still be very much with us—what with Marjorie Barnes humming those luring melodies . . . Alberta Vutz and Marie Bean practicing dance steps . . . and Pete Wyckoff reducing us to hysterics with his Scottish dialect. Pete—the little hearted Clown Prince of our store family—doesn't just slay you. He KILLS you!

I should like to thank Joe Whelan, in behalf of the Wyckoff management and myself, for the kind words about our radio program in his chatty "Off Mike" column this past Monday. Had I had more time to consider when Joe telephoned for information, I most certainly would have asked him to express, in print, my most sincere thanks and encouragement extended during the first few months of the Wyckoff Shopper's appearance. Joe has been, and still is, a wonderful friend to myself and the store I represent. As for "Mr. Whelan" himself—there too is a lad with a talent for doing many things well. We like his column, his commentating, AND JOE!

RARE WOODS

With the trend toward natural looking wood, unusual woods with interesting grains are being imported from all parts of the world. The one thing they have in common is a quality of warmth. However, you don't have to leave the States to find rare woods. Pecan, which comes from Louisiana, is durable and decorative. Though once used only for trim it is now seen in living, dining and bedroom pieces.

With the trend toward less work and more leisure, plastic wall tiles are finding their way into new as well as remodeled homes. These tiles are not only a snap to keep sparkling clean but they supply a cheerful and attractive note as well. Before making any drastic changes in your kitchen, be sure to get particulars on plastic wall tiles at the Monroe County General Flooring Co., 914 North Ninth Street, Stroudsburg. Tel. 508-J.

High Russian, American Officials Talk About Each Other In Considerably Softer Terms

By J. M. ROBERTS
NEWS ANALYST

HIGH RUSSIAN and American officials were talking about each other yesterday in considerably softer terms than usual, out from viewpoints still widely divergent.

Secretary of State Dulles spoke hopefully of a new deference by Russia's leaders for the Russian people, but warned, "They haven't gotten religion."

Communist party secretary Khrushchev broadcast throughout the Soviet Union a view that the United States is moving toward cooperation with Russia.

Dulles was talking about the American foreign aid program, which he wants to intensify, as one of the means by which Russia had been brought to see the need for a less violent approach both in her internal and international affairs.

Khrushchev was talking about setting up negotiations with the United States similar to those just closed in Britain, which he claimed had laid the groundwork for further progress in relations, but which outsiders assayed as having left the situation worse rather than better.

Khrushchev spoke again about trade possibilities. But he had made his purposes too clear in London. There he said he wasn't interested in herring, but in machine tools. It's true he needs them, everyone knows why. He needs foreign machine tools to help him get a little consumer production, and so pacify Russians who see their own vastly increased productive capacity going into the tools of war.

The great tragedy of modern times, of course, is that when a Communist leader talks about "cooperation" from the United States he's really hoping for a creeping process of surrender.

Cooperation

Cooperation between the United States and Russia was next to winning the war, the greatest aim of America during the period between the Battle of Stalingrad and the Potsdam conference. Her officials were so hopeful, in fact, that their judgments were clouded. The cold war took them by surprise, even though Russia had been telegraphing the punch for 20 years.

Sees Giver And Receiver Both Guilty In Recent Bans

NEW YORK, May 1 (AP)—Well, have you got your irony today?

The Amateur Athletic Union punishes Wes Santee for allegedly taking expense money above and beyond the call of duty to compete in track and field events. The promoters of the meet, or those responsible for the arrangements, get off scott free, or at least unpunished, we don't know who this Scott is they're always talking about.

Marciano Felt He Was Past Fighting Peak

BOSTON, May 1 (AP)—It wasn't sentiment alone that led Rocky Marciano to retire as heavyweight boxing champion—he apparently felt he was past his peak.

Rocky's trainer, Charley Goldman, who knows the 33-year-old Brockton buster better than anyone in the game, told him so according to Boston Post Columnist Gerry Hern yesterday.

Hern, who found Marciano resting in his Catskill Mountains retreat near the site of his Grosinger's training camp, reports Rocky's conversation:

"At the end, the training was getting tougher and tougher, but the fights were wonderful. You know, here's something I didn't tell anyone else.

"Late Friday afternoon (the day Rocky announced his retirement decision) I was talking with Charley Goldman who taught me whatever boxing I know.

"You know what Charley told me?"

"He admitted that I was at my peak against (Archie) Moore. I might learn a couple more tricks and I had two or three more good fights left in me, but that was the peak."

The Moore fight last September was unbeatn Rocky's finale.

The inference is that from that point on the only direction Rocky could go was down—and he knew it.

The 33-year-old Rocky, who had eliminated virtually all his competition, told Hern he wants most of all to help kids gain confidence in themselves through boys clubs.

Not afraid of the future nor as wealthy as many people believe, Marciano—who knew the pangs of loneliness as champion—also says he longs for a quiet family life.

Martha Raye Denies Charge By Woman

WESTPORT, Conn., May 1 (AP)—Actress Martha Raye, target of two separate legal actions, complained today that "there seems to be a new trend. Start the month of May by suing Martha Raye."

In a statement read from behind a screen door by her lawyer, Shirley Woolf, the comedienne reiterated a denial that she alienated the affections of Robert O'Shea, 27, Westport policeman, a charge made by the policeman's pretty wife.

And, added Miss Raye, "as for my husband, Edward T. Begley, whom I haven't seen for almost a year, I was surprised to hear that he is asking for a divorce."

Conference

Newsmen, summoned to Miss Raye's home here for a press conference, didn't see the television star, but were told by her attorney that the statement was based on a meeting of Miss Raye and Miss Woolf here this morning.

The press conference originally was scheduled for about 1:30 p.m., but for some unexplained reason, was postponed for nearly two hours.

The actress said there is "no new romance" in her life, and added "nor do I intend to get married again."

Walter Sees Tougher Job Ahead For House Committee

WASHINGTON, May 1 (AP)—Chairman Walter (D-Pa.) said today that "current Communist strategy will undoubtedly require an intensification" of the work of the House Committee on Un-American Activities.

Walter made the comment in announcing the appointment of Richard Arens as director of the committee. He said:

"Mr. Arens' outstanding accomplishments in this field will contribute greatly to the success of the committee's efforts against the Communist conspiracy."

Arens, 43, has been with the Senate Committee on the Judiciary since 1947. In addition to his new House duties, the House committee will continue to serve, without pay, as staff director of the Senate group.

Walter said Arens' appointment was made "to coordinate more effectively the legislative and investigative work of the committee."

A committee statement called Arens "an acknowledged expert on the tactics and strategy of world communism and Communist activity among alien and foreign nationality groups."

He was director of the staff which prepared the Internal Security Act of 1950 and also director of the Judiciary Committee staff which helped prepare the Act, the committee said.

A native of Kansas City, Mo., Arens received his law degree from Washington University at St. Louis and from 1937 to 1941 practiced law in Kansas City. From 1941-45 he served as legal secretary to Gov. Forrest C. Donnell of Missouri. Arens was then a member of the Missouri Public Service Commission. From 1945 to 1947 he was director of reorganization of the executive departments of Missouri.

Dulles Rings Bell With Latest Speech

By J. M. ROBERTS

Associated Press News Analyst

THE VAGUE speech made last week by Secretary Dulles about expanding the economic and political role of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization is producing the results he intended—an extended discussion by leaders of other nations.

Dulles accepted in general suggestions already made in other member countries and advised them the United States would approve if they became more specific.

The results has been a rather general acceptance of the idea of political expansion—under which members would advise with and consult each other on all matters of mutual or even bilateral interest, including economic.

Opinion

As for actual economic cooperation, there is a division of opinion. First, the British are more interested in the political features of any action taken. They cannot make economic commitments in Europe which might affect their trade relations with other Commonwealth nations which are not members of NATO. But Britain is agreed that NATO offers a vehicle for conducting the type of economic warfare which Russia is now emphasizing.

Others would merely like to see the United States tied into the Organization for European Economic Cooperation.

Some think the NATO nations would do better to make their contributions to world economic development through the United Nations, where Russia and the United States could both be pinned down to do or not do their share as a social, economic and humanitarian contribution rather than as a part of their contest for world supremacy.

All realize that the Western powers started the economic war, and that in a way Russia's present activities are a counterattack instead of a new phase of that conflict. They realize that this economic conflict might produce victory or defeat in the contest between communism and democratic capitalism for world dominance, without shooting war.

Consideration

Much of the consideration therefore hinges about whether the free world's objectives will have best hope of attainment through economic warfare, as at present, or through a type of aid which presents its own argument in favor of one economic system which produces a greater general welfare than another, and does so without such great restrictions on the individual and on free thought.

Office

Archbishop John F. O'Hara of Philadelphia described the new prelate's office as one combining the duties of a teacher, priest and shepherd.

"The priest must offer, bless, rule, preach and baptize but a bishop must also judge, interpret, consecrate, ordain and confirm," Archbishop O'Hara told the audience.

Bishop Schott was ordained a priest in June, 1935 and given the honorary rank of major in November, 1952.

He was named to be a titular bishop last March 7 by Pope Pius XII.

The District of Columbia ballot provided no presidential preference poll. Full 12-member delegate slates were entered by the Kefauver and Stevenson camps, however. Six other candidates—five uncommitted and one pro-Stevenson—also were entered.

Another Democratic contest, for national committeeman, pitted F. Joseph (Jiggs) Donohue, Kefauver's national campaign manager, against Melvin D. Heldreth, the incumbent and a Stevenson supporter.

On the Republican ballot, nine candidates contended for six delegate positions. All nine were for Eisenhower.

Word on Eisenhower's likely role in the fall campaign came from GOP National Chairman Leonard Hall after a White House meeting with the President.

"As far as I'm concerned," Hall told newsmen, "we are still going on the basis that he will make five or six TV appearances. Nothing more is expected of him."

Hall also took part Tuesday in a political debate before 3,000 delegates to the U. S. Chamber of Commerce convention. It quickly developed into a hot tempered argument.

Exchanges

Some of the sharpest exchanges were between Hall's Democratic counterpart, Paul M. Butler, and Sen. Goldwater (R-Ariz.). They came after Goldwater charged that the Democrats got campaign funds from contributions forced from labor union members by their leaders.

In reply, Butler said Republican contributions in 1952 included "the Rockefeller's, $94,000; the DuPonts, $74,000; the Pews, $65,000; the Mellons, $36,000, and H. R. Cullen, $53,000."

The program moderator, radio-TV producer Lawrence Spivak, then asked Butler if the Democrats objected when they got heavy contributions from "the Raskob's—a reference to John J. Raskob, the 1928 Democratic national chairman.

Bishop Schott Consecrated In Ceremony

HARRISBURG, May 1 (AP)—Bishop Lawrence F. Schott of Mount Carmel was consecrated today in a solemn ceremony of the Roman Catholic Church before some 1,200 persons in St. Patrick's Cathedral.

The Most Rev. George L. Leech, bishop of Harrisburg, consecrated the 51-year-old pastor before an audience of some 500 monsignori, priests, nuns and laymen.

The three-hour ceremony was the first of its type held in the downtown Harrisburg cathedral since its erection in 1907.

Bishop Schott will serve as assistant to Bishop Leech but for the present will maintain his residence in Mount Carmel.

Crowd

An estimated 500 persons stood outside the church to watch the solemn procession from the rectory to the cathedral entrance.

The 70-voice choir of St. Charles' Seminary chanted the Latin phrases during the colorful pageantry of the rite.

Television cameras recorded the entire ceremony. Bishops Michael J. Ready of Columbus, Ohio, and James McNulty of Paterson, N. J., were co-consecrators.

Bishop Schott is the first auxiliary bishop assigned to Harrisburg since Bishop Leech was elevated from that post in 1935 to head the diocese.

Office

Archbishop John F. O'Hara of Philadelphia described the new prelate's office as one combining the duties of a teacher, priest and shepherd.

"The priest must offer, bless, rule, preach and baptize but a bishop must also judge, interpret, consecrate, ordain and confirm," Archbishop O'Hara told the audience.

Bishop Schott was ordained a priest in June, 1935 and given the honorary rank of major in November, 1952.

He was named to be a titular bishop last March 7 by Pope Pius XII.

The District of Columbia ballot provided no presidential preference poll. Full 12-member delegate slates were entered by the Kefauver and Stevenson camps, however. Six other candidates—five uncommitted and one pro-Stevenson—also were entered.

Another Democratic contest, for national committeeman, pitted F. Joseph (Jiggs) Donohue, Kefauver's national campaign manager, against Melvin D. Heldreth, the incumbent and a Stevenson supporter.
